

A True Example of Love

2 Corinthians 5:14

True love involves personal sacrifice. Robert McCheyne (1813-1843) shared the following example of self-sacrifice for the cause of Christ:

“The awful disease of leprosy still exists in Africa. It is so infectious that no one dares to come near the leper. In Africa there is a large area for lepers, enclosed by a very high wall with only one entrance, which is strictly guarded. Whenever anyone is found with leprosy, he is brought to this gate and obliged to enter in, never to come out again. Two lepers were sowing peas in the field: the one had no hands, the other had no feet. The one who lacked hands was carrying the other, who lacked feet, upon his back, and he again carried in his hands the bag of seed, and dropped a pea every now and then, which the other pressed into the ground with his foot; and so they managed the work of one man between the two. Ah! how little we know of the misery that is in the world! Such is this prison house of disease.

“But you will ask, who cares for the souls of these hapless inmates? Who will venture to enter in at this dreadful gate to carry the message of the Saviour, never to return again? Two Moravian missionaries, impelled by a divine love for souls, have chosen this leprosy prison as their field of labor. They entered it never to come out again, and I am told that as soon as these die, other Moravians are quite ready to fill their place. Ah, my dear friends, may we not blush, and be ashamed before God, that we, redeemed with the same blood, and taught by the same Spirit, should yet be so unlike these men in vehement, heart-consuming love to Jesus and the souls of men?”

Truly these Moravians were constrained by the love of Christ!

~George Zeller: www.middletonbiblechurch.org

A True Example of Love

2 Corinthians 5:14

True love involves personal sacrifice. Robert McCheyne (1813-1843) shared the following example of self-sacrifice for the cause of Christ:

“The awful disease of leprosy still exists in Africa. It is so infectious that no one dares to come near the leper. In Africa there is a large area for lepers, enclosed by a very high wall with only one entrance, which is strictly guarded. Whenever anyone is found with leprosy, he is brought to this gate and obliged to enter in, never to come out again. Two lepers were sowing peas in the field: the one had no hands, the other had no feet. The one who lacked hands was carrying the other, who lacked feet, upon his back, and he again carried in his hands the bag of seed, and dropped a pea every now and then, which the other pressed into the ground with his foot; and so they managed the work of one man between the two. Ah! how little we know of the misery that is in the world! Such is this prison house of disease.

“But you will ask, who cares for the souls of these hapless inmates? Who will venture to enter in at this dreadful gate to carry the message of the Saviour, never to return again? Two Moravian missionaries, impelled by a divine love for souls, have chosen this leprosy prison as their field of labor. They entered it never to come out again, and I am told that as soon as these die, other Moravians are quite ready to fill their place. Ah, my dear friends, may we not blush, and be ashamed before God, that we, redeemed with the same blood, and taught by the same Spirit, should yet be so unlike these men in vehement, heart-consuming love to Jesus and the souls of men?”

Truly these Moravians were constrained by the love of Christ!

~George Zeller: www.middletonbiblechurch.org